

Term	Definition & Information	Aliases
Domination	Board Game played by 2-4 players. At least one human player. When one player captures all pieces of all other players, player wins and game finishes	Game
Player	2-4 players can play the game. At least one human player is needed in a computerized game.	human/computer
Pieces	Board pieces that are used to play the game	Green, red, blue, yellow
Save	At any given time, game is paused, and state of the game is stored to be resumed later
Difficulty Level	Is how competitively the computer will play the game	Easy/hard
Moves	Are turns taken by each player in clockwise, moves will be made by moving the pieces horizontally or vertically. Cannot be diagonally
Single move	When only one piece is moved from one position to another position
Multi move	When a stack of pieces is moved from one position to another position
Stack	A tower of pieces, that can include both self pieces and opponent pieces.
Reserve	If a stack has more than five pieces, then the bottom pieces belonging to the player can be reserved for later.
Capture	If the stack has more than five pieces, then the bottom pieces belonging to the opponent can be removed from the board.	